

Clark County Agribusiness Technology Park and Central Wisconsin Agribusiness Innovation Center (CWAIC)

The Central Wisconsin Agribusiness Innovation Center (CWAIC) is a key component in the Clark County Agribusiness Technology Park. The Central Wisconsin Agribusiness Innovation Center (CWAIC) will be a multi-purpose facility designed to foster education, training, research and development in the areas of agribusiness and bioenergy. The building will incorporate large and small group learning environments, public meeting and presentation space. The center will place an emphasis on laboratory facilities and will provide business incubator space for bioenergy and agricultural entrepreneurs. The building itself will be a learning tool, using sustainable development concepts in the design of the building and surrounding site.
