Applications extended until June 26 for $75 million We're All In Small Business Grants

More than 26,000 businesses have already applied for the $2,500 grants

MADISON, June 24, 2020 – The Wisconsin Economic Development Corporation (WEDC) is extending the deadline until 11:59 p.m. on Friday, June 26, for small businesses to apply online for the $2,500 We're All In Small Business Grants, WEDC officials announced today.

WEDC had received more than 26,000 applications as of late Tuesday night, when applications were originally scheduled to close. The deadline was extended to give additional businesses more time to get needed documents and submit their information to WEDC.

The program, which will provide $2,500 grants to 30,000 small businesses, is designed to help small businesses recover from the COVID-19 pandemic, while also encouraging them to adopt best practices to keep employees, customers and communities safe.

WEDC Secretary and CEO Missy Hughes said the We're All In grants “will not be determined on a first-come, first-served basis, so businesses all have the same chance of receiving a grant, regardless of when they apply. But with the limited time that’s left, we’re encouraging businesses to apply now so that if they have questions, they don’t risk missing out on this important resource.”

Funded primarily by the federal Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act, the grants will help small businesses with the costs of business interruption or health and safety improvements, wages and salaries, rent, mortgages and inventory.

Hughes noted that unlike most other programs to assist businesses impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic, “the We're All In grants come with very few strings attached. They are grants – not loans – so they don’t have to be repaid, and businesses can use the money for whatever they need at this time.”

The online application, FAQs, and other information about the grant can be found at <https://wedc.org/programs-and-resources/wai-small-business-grant/>. The online grant application will be open at the same site from until 11:59 p.m. on Friday, June 26. WEDC anticipates releasing the first round of payments by early to mid-July.

Hughes reminded businesses that even though the deadline is approaching, they should take extra care to make sure to have all their required documents in order before applying online.

“We’ve found that in some cases, businesses have submitted incomplete information, such as not signing W-9 forms or uploading the wrong documents,” she said. “If they have all the right materials in hand, applying will only take a few minutes, and it will avoid delays as we process the applications.”

To prepare for the online application process, businesses should be ready to upload the following documents to the WEDC application:

- 2018 or 2019 federal tax return for business. (Businesses started in 2020 are not eligible for this grant.)
- Signed and dated W-9 form available at www.irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/fw9.pdf
- An email or letter of acknowledgement from a community organization indicating the business was in operation in February 2020. Letters or emails can be from any of the following:

This network of Main Street businesses will form the backbone of a broader We're All In initiative to be joined by major Wisconsin businesses, communities and other associations to encourage support for and demonstrate best health and safety practices in public places.
